Sunday, April 25, 1999 - 10:00 a.m.

One should never despair of men; one must believe in divine mercy. All is not lost; the fate of the Earth will be perhaps mitigated. God who knows men's heart well, knows that they are not so bad, by and large. Many of them are caught in the spiral of violence and cannot stop any more. They are locked up in a kind of swirl, which leaves them helpless.

"Pray, pray for this storm to calm down. We want to make you become aware of the cause of this evil; counter it with the strength of your faith in God and the love, which you feel growing in you. With time, this is a great movement, which can help the world. Be well conscious of its strength as well as the tool at your disposal.

"We, your Masters, are with you; answer our call. Help us with what you deem possibly worth giving. That's all!"

Babuji