Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Tuesday, December 10, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

Protect yourself from the stresses and strains of the external world, spare yourself; the main thing is to keep the course while remaining well centred. Rejuvenate yourself in the heart of silence; focus on the main thing, without departing from your usual line. Time is counted for you as it is for each living being on this Earth, and it cannot be made up for. When a life choice is made, one should better stick to it for one's personal blooming. By devoting one moment in the course of the day to spiritual exercises, the aspirant moulds himself harmoniously. His practice makes him stronger, less vulnerable in the face of tests that do arise during a lifetime. Nobody's process is test-free. The recourse of faith, broadened by a regular practice, reinforces the feeling of acceptance and, especially, one's awareness of an absolute necessity during an incarnation to go through all the states of souls inherent in this world. Only in this way, can the being mould himself and get stronger in the face of the unknown that awaits him here and elsewhere. All men are equal before these principles; no one can escape the law of God – which does not provide for any privilege. Each soul must acquire its true titles of nobility, beyond human judgement. God's justice is immanent, they say. It is. It exists from time immemorial and manifests itself in the most insignificant acts of life, without being recognised as such. The divine laws apply to every one, without any distinction. Graces also are not restrictive; they go where His kindness directs them, attracted by surrender, love and faith lying in man's heart."
