Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fourth Revelation

Saturday, January 18, 2003 - 10:00 a.m.

Great missioned beings came to the Earth, bringing words of love, compassion and tolerance; what has remained of it? Men corrupted and distorted their remarks to an extent which they themselves would never have imagined. Thus is humanity; bad instincts prevail over whatever it touches.

"The spirit of domination always ends up prevailing. Man is programmed like that in his genes. A major transformation will have to take place on this level, so that man can rise as planned. He is bound to carry on his pursuit of excesses so that this transformation will be completed; these excesses are spreading across the world where hatred has reached considerable proportions. A wind of madness is blowing on the people; everything is used as a pretext to express violence, which they cannot manage to control any more. It will lead to the punishment that they impose on themselves, because of all sorts of excesses that they have indulged in for too long a time.

"It is not possible any more to contain this wave; only the best will be saved, it cannot be otherwise. There comes a time when the system cannot reverse any more; it has raced for a rather long time already, so that the forces of good can check its effects.

"May God's will be fulfilled, as is proper. All is not lost; humanity will rise from its ashes, with increased stature and strength."
