

Monday, March 24, 2003 - 8:00 AM

You often take down these messages under difficult conditions. We appreciate your determination to ensure that they are taken. These writings do not contain great revelations or scoops, but they will defy time and will be read in the future.

"Sahaj Marg is a way for the future; it will find its way to the hearts and will become a kind of reference for many human beings. God wants it so. Since the beginning of time, changes occurred at that level, trying to enlighten men differently on the way leading them towards Him. Our way will find its place, which will not be the least of the ways; in its simplicity it will attract souls fond of the Absolute, and will accompany them on this path, which is a stage in their long search.

"Today's man opens his eyes; he will progress in terms of discernment, becoming riper and less impressionable. He needs to be structured to understand the mechanisms of this life, their justifications and their great implications in a universal order.

"His vision will need to encompass other worlds and he should no longer regard himself as a unique specimen living amongst his like, on the only inhabited planet. This conviction will collapse in the face of events that will astound him. He will have to find the humility suited to his smallness."

Babuji