Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, April 29, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

Don't start underestimating yourself; you are on a beautiful path for which many envy you, and your possibilities are intact, so write!

It is beautiful to see such enthusiasm in the abhyasis. It is a large and beautiful celebration that is being prepared. I am as happy as a child filled with wonder to see what is taking place here [in Manapakkam] and in the rest of the world.

This centenary has taken on such proportions; there is little more to add.

Seeing you all so joyful and eager is heartening.

Our brothers and sisters have mobilized themselves so much in response to our appeal that my son and I are deeply touched.

Manapakkam is a jewel; it is becoming the temple of Sahaj Marg. It is a superb edifice, whose cosmic charge could cause it to collapse.

May it henceforth be your focal point, your reference. Focus your thoughts on it.

May your inner pilgrimage be in union with this place. It is charged with a force that you cannot imagine.

Know too that distances do not matter and that, with a very strong call, you can easily connect with it through thought.

Henceforth, it will be the meeting point of all abhyasis on the Earth.

It will be your holy land.

I repeat to you all, this place has grandeur, not only in its proportions and aesthetics, but also for what it represents that is unique for our century.

Never forget it.
