Saturday, May 3, 2003 - 10:00 AM

Post-seminar periods are conducive to assessments for our brothers who are assiduous in their practice and convinced of their good choice, with regard to the way they are following. Each celebration is a milestone in their progress and makes them generally stronger, without them even realizing it. The heart likes to revitalize itself, to be surrounded by the prevailing forces and to relish the manna, which necessarily feeds it generously. The soul delights in these moments of union and harmony when all beings are like brothers. It would be so beautiful a pacified humanity, centred on the same values and advancing in the same spirit of surrender and love, having the same goal of fusion with the Ultimate.

"Humanity is trying to find itself; its vision of the goal to be attained is not coherent. Too many negative aspects are masking reality from them. It is in the making, many good elements are leading their fellow ones on more or less circuitous ways, but which aim at reaching the summit of this sacred mountain, symbolically representing the attainment of the top. The soul only aspires to rising; it suffers from its condition, as it is constrained in its momentum and restricted to what it is being offered until it is liberated. When a researcher has reached our way, they are reassured; here, they are offered the opportunity to find fulfilment in the noblest way, thus achieving their paramount goal. A soul can be picked like a rare and invaluable flower, in its more beautiful blooming."

Babuji