Clear your mind. Move up toward the level where we can meet and communicate. There, you can forget all that weighs on you here below, and this communion is a solace to your heart. Some days are more favourable to our contact; you are doing your level best to properly catch us. In some circumstances, it is not easy for you to perform this ritual. Your love and faith in us carry you; it's worth repeating that this attitude is necessary for spiritual practice and activities resulting from this commitment. They represent an absolute priority but all our brothers have not been willing to engage in this kind of priesthood.

"Everyone does his best according to his motivations. While you persevere in following us, a heart impulse contributes to reinforcing the spirit of our system. The fact that hearts are united towards the same goal, which is supported by a vigilant Master, leads to the success and development of a way destined to impress itself in the world. All forces are uniting towards that end; each one of our brothers should be well convinced of his role within our Mission. Each one of them has a place assigned to them and which is part and parcel of a whole belonging to the beginnings of the new era which will change this world from what it stands now."
