Friday, June 6, 2003 - 10:00 AM

We have already gone a long way together through these regular contacts, which now are extended to my son, since these messages are delivered to him every day. Our system is well set up and the current technology further supports this achievement. Let us continue for some little time, if you so wish. It does not seem, for the time being, that your circle is wearied.

"Man needs to be fed with repetitions; we therefore proceed accordingly with a view to making all of our candidates benefit from them one day. Many human beings have perceptions that are not recognized, and that moreover do not develop because of the prevailing state of mind. The current system of education does not foster the recognition of gifts that seem disturbing. Here again, spirits will have to change and should not neglect these kinds of possibilities.

"Humanity must develop globally, we should say, and should no longer ignore the countless resources which almost all individuals possess. In the future, channelling will not be restricted to isolated cases, but it will be a reality concerning the aptitudes of all human beings. A great step remains to be taken before this planet reaches a new status whereby beings living thereon will be freed from the veil of ignorance which is concealing the truth."

Babuji