

Tuesday, June 10, 2003 - 9:30 AM

My dear son,

"The union of our hearts is stronger than ever. The stature acquired by your heart has made this ultimate fusion possible. We are in osmosis, immensely attracted in this endless spiral. Your bodies, at the most subtle level, are being entirely divinized. We love you so much. How could we express in words that which defies words!

"You are completing your work on this Earth, but your real life is here now. We are happy to underline this event, which will make no difference, or little difference, to your current life, but which deserved to be specifically mentioned. Our scribe is happy to try to translate what she perceives. Such a wave of love accompanies this message that it cannot be shown on paper. May it nevertheless accompany you throughout the day and its effect last in you. This mail is a bit more intimate. As usual, our messengers will strive to convey it swiftly. Through it, they will feel the inexpressible and the immutable beauty flowing from our hearts towards yours.

"My dear son! That is what we had to tell you today. Our remarks may seem abstract, but they convey a profound meaning which does not escape you: all is subtle in this wave of love, which you will sense by reading these lines.

"We are accompanying your steps more than ever, though painful they may be under some circumstances. Feel our presence by your side; it accompanies you with rare blessings."

Babuji