Saturday, July 19, 2003 - 10:00 a.m.

What is important, for the time being, is to continue to take down these messages. Even if they do not exactly meet each one's expectations, their dimension of teaching is greater than is revealed on the first reading. Do those who read them take into account the many comments made with insistence? It seems not. The human being forgets quickly; focusing on his own ideas, he generally sticks to them and does not pay attention to indications given to him.

"These messages will not change him significantly, though they may, one day, help him realise his mistakes.

"These writings are a 'heart to heart' teaching; the wisest will be able to decode them.

"This seminar is a great success, which my son is offering to Europeans who make the effort to go and see him. It will leave its mark in the hearts of the participants and those who, for imperative reasons, could not attend. It will represent a milestone in the development of our way, in these countries where his visit will have a special impact.

"My son is at his zenith, he is giving his best. Many hearts were missing him; his presence reassures them and encourages them to continue more fervently. To his disciples, a Master is irreplaceable; nevertheless, they must grow through a thorough work on themselves and go beyond the need to be by his side. The Master's visit to a country is a rare blessing which our candidates must be aware of. His stay will leave a mark in the hearts of men receptive to his action; may it clear their way."

Babuji