Turn away from this world and come in us to rejuvenate yourself. Forget your worries, life and its trail of difficulties of all kinds. Isn't the planet of love there, to regenerate desperate hearts! Immerse yourself in the soothing environment where the masterpieces of the spirit are built. Here, all is abundance, equality and serenity.

"The wise man comes to seek refuge in this place and to build a life ideal, beyond the emotional and tangible properties. He finds himself as he is, divested of attributes that are meaningless on a cosmic scale. He knows where he wants to go and he advances in all confidence, in a way where he will not be faced with disappointment. His enthusiasm for progressing lends him wings and his progress is proportional to his faith. 'All is nothing and God is everything' is very much relevant to the circumstances; this formula is perfectly appropriate. How better can this be said in such few words? Your heart needed a break enabling it to put in perspective all that currently disturbs it.

"Your Master flew away towards a continent that is trying to find itself spiritually. Beings living therein are caught in a swirl, a wind of madness, moving them away from the true values preached here. Time will come when everything will be wreaked, as far as these people are concerned, when big plagues would have left them astounded. They will then turn to the values of the spirit by calling on divine mercy. Each people have their own karma; that is how things are."
