Sunday, September 28, 2003 - 10:00 AM

Your heart is subjugated, my child. Let it follow its natural inclination which consists in following and loving its Master. Do not be surprised by this power which takes you towards him; his divine heart is attractive and yours cannot resist it. This beautiful story of the conquest of a recalcitrant heart makes us happy. It will be only all the more faithful and fervent in its quest towards the Unnamed, under the guidance of a Chosen Being. This epilogue amazes you: that is spiritual life. Until the end, it is full of lessons to be learnt and unforeseen turnings. Your meeting has been determining, in many respects, and the resulting impact will last over time.

"My son has reached a critical stage in his action as a spiritual Master. He holds all the powers that manifest themselves in a multidimensional framework, well beyond what he can understand humanly.

"We are preparing him for a glorious future, he who is so humble and submitted to his Beloved, and Divine Guide. He has come into this special correspondence with reticence, but he can henceforth perceive therein overtones emanating from his inner being. Through this, it is about an approach of his second nature (free from the vibrations of this world, alienating in many respects) and suggesting the richness of his true personality, beyond that which he shows here below. He is just starting to discover himself: a royal road is opening up before him. Everything is fine, as per our wishes."

Babuji