We have already come a long way with these messages; our contacts have intensified. My daughter, you are doing your level best to keep up from day to day.

"We are very satisfied with this seminar. At this point in time, we have a better overview of the results obtained. The motivation of the abhyasis is more than satisfactory. They have become aware of the reliability of the system. They see that regular practice entails will power and perseverance, and most of them comply with it.

"There is some progress in the individual work. That is important; the wires of this immense netting are getting tighter and more solid. We have stronger and stronger elements, future responsible persons all over the world. Many of them will be needed: men and women active, balanced, understanding that they are advancing in a way open to all, non-sectarian and simple in terms of its practice, an effective means suited to their time, to mentalities that expect results with minimum efforts—though results are proportional to the efforts, of course. We will not insist on this. Awareness is developing in the Mission on this aspect. Many [abhyasis] are growing out of childishness.

"The Occident is starting to move. With the passing of the years, perhaps we will witness an inversion of values. Together let us do everything we can for this awareness to be successful, and for the East and the Occident to be harmonized in this area, for the good of humanity."
