Tuesday, October 21, 2003 - 10:00 AM

We understand your weariness, but try to continue for a while, for the love of us. How else could we tell you that this work will not remain unused and that our brothers and sisters will appreciate it? This reading will provide them something else other than our books: a spiritual food coming from higher levels of consciousness and that will touch them differently.

"We do know that all was already said in these messages, but these repetitions have their raison d'etre. Remain confident in what you are doing and especially trust us who motivate you to accomplish this daily work. The number of our abhyasis is increasing; they are very different from one another and they do not approach their spiritual process in the same way. Many aspire to revert to more simplicity, to interiorize themselves and to go beyond the great existential questionings, to return to the source and to merge with it, leaving the intellect aside and considering only the essence. Their thirst for God is great and justifies this need for surrendering in their trust to a Master they chose and in the teaching provided in our way. They understand that this process is meant to help them divest themselves of useless aspects, of endless reasoning, in order to return to heart simplicity, which is the only one capable of clearing their way to the true knowledge that is outside complicated formulas which in no case will give them the peace they are longing for. They wish to comply with the divine laws, and for this reason, they wish to sweep away useless things cluttering up their mind, so that they could hear their own truth: that which is inside them and which will lead them towards wisdom."

Babuji