My dear daughter,

"Not only are you still capable of doing this work, but your perceptions have been refined considerably with time. Do you believe that it would be possible for you to communicate with the higher entity of your Master, if you were not qualified for that? What you manage to do in these contacts shows the capabilities of many advanced beings in the future. All that seems amazing today will become the reality of tomorrow. There is a long way to go on this Earth and our aspirants should, for their own good, open up now to this knowledge, to better assimilate concepts which it is time for them not to ignore.

"This big spiritual movement of the future, already mentioned previously, will be open to a teaching which men will need in order to be better placed in this vast universe, of which currently they ignore the richness and the laws governing their life in this world. The beyond, as it is called here, governs their destiny on Earth where one of the facets of their real identity is at work. Some of our brothers will be amazed by these comments, but the majority will understand that it will be necessary for them to adapt to this opening towards the Infinite. Otherwise they would continue to stagnate in their very limited universe.

"True knowledge on Earth can only prevail through ways suited to the evolution of the upcoming new era, of which our way is part and parcel. It will not remain set in its initial teaching. The principle will remain the same; being self-contained, it requires no addition whatsoever—this point is important. Certain publications having nothing to do with our system and which wander off from our basic teaching are not desirable—this must be underlined. Only open-mindedness concerning our remarks will be suitable for new times. The world is at a transitional period of its history; it will be preferable for men, and our brothers in particular, to adapt to realities which we have just alluded to, if they want to really benefit from all that we offer to them."
