Saturday, May 8, 1999 - 10:00 a.m.

The Medium: "Babuji, are you happy with my work?"

Should this question really be answered? Do you believe that we don't see your efforts to please us, and the energy you thus expend? There is nothing more to say. Meditate and you will feel in your heart our true answer.

"In future times, all will not understand these messages. Some people will always remain sceptical about the [underlying] means of communication. It is inevitable. The most open will benefit from another approach of our teaching and will be helped by him. It will be very positive for them.

"You can already see the reactions of some people who have access to them.

"It is not an academic writing style—left aside purposely. We provide some simple ideas, in a simple way, but not simplistic. Leave your literary formation aside, the resulting gain is more important than syntax. We do not mean that syntax should be neglected. Our readers are no ignoramuses. We only intend to clarify things. Many people will be able to read these writings, but they will perhaps not read the books. By insisting on specific aspects, in a concise way, we will touch the greatest number of people. These writings are meant for the heart, more specifically than for the mind. Take it like that for your own good."

Babuji