To accept oneself, to accept one's life, with all unpleasant things included in it, is a sign of wisdom. Each day, each hour of life, is an opportunity of progressing in self-construction and in the possibility of uniting more and more with the Divine. This positive attitude is fulfilling in many respects: it allows one to obtain the best things.

"Compared to eternity, this incarnation is a short-lived one, we have already said it enough, no time should be wasted and our aspirants have understood it. Our faithful advance in a satisfactory way, particularly the most assiduous ones. Many of them sought their way before coming to us. They made experiments but they lacked the flash, a sign coming from the heart that would have made them understand that they had found the Master intended for them. Nothing happens without reason. What man calls coincidence or chance does not exist; they were guided, as is proper for their greatest good. This pivotal moment in their Earthly existence was very important concerning their connection to the Divine.

"A genuine process takes on its full meaning under the guidance of a high level Master blessed with all the capacities and accredited for his high mission. The aspirant does not realize how lucky he is, and often he does not take advantage of the opportunity given to him. Years spent in our Mission open doors to all our brothers; it is up to them to act as is appropriate.

"Each one has his own luck in this world to choose the right direction; only profound motivation is the determining factor. The destiny of humanity is under way; our way goes in this direction, and it did not take off in vain. At all stages of its evolution, this world was bestowed with guides, who were great servants of God, capable of making it reach a new stage. The upcoming one will be decisive for it."
