

Wednesday, December 24, 2003 - 10:00 AM

My dear son,

"You are surpassing yourself with this new step taken by the Mission. A consecrated ashram is like a flame, a point of light lighting up the world. It needs it so much. Our way is successfully carrying on. You are its guide, the privileged chosen one. This dedication represents a new period of expansion [of our way], the furrow of which will grow deeper in the future. Pursue your work, my son; our special blessings are on you unceasingly. You are holding a torch which will not die away immediately—what a privilege! Get that thought firmly rooted in your mind; we love you."

Babuji Maharaj