The Earth has reached an era of dislocation and transformation, as far as life in this world is concerned. Men of the future will need to make a lot of efforts to picture what life is today, as a great cleanup of its current characteristics will occur. It always was like that since the dawn of time. Since then, the most advanced studies have not brought to light a truth still escaping men as researchers are not open to what they call the irrational. Scientists' 'logic' remains aberrant in many cases, but that is how things are; let us not dwell on that. What we are interested in is beyond form. Only the spiritual development of the beings is to be considered. Their future in that area is the subject of a joint action pertaining to the foreseen divine plans.

"This planet is coming to a crucial stage where all must change, with regard to men's behaviour; it seems that many of them have lost their minds. Humanity is in danger in many respects. As for most of them, God remains an abstraction, they consider themselves the masters of the world, authorized to put it in danger, at all costs. What is taking place becomes a danger not only to this planet, but also to an overall equilibrium necessary to the universal order. May humans see reason again while there is still time. Let us pray for that."
