Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, January 14, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

Forget, for a while, your life's problems; take refuge in us, in this sanctuary that you like. Here, you regain life, that which escapes the rules of this world. You feed on nectar that is unknown to this world. Most humans live caught up in their material life, without bothering about a reality that is completely beyond them. They attend to their business, wrapped up in a thousand things, many of which are uninteresting but which to them constitute the most important aspect of their existence on this Earth.

"A new race of human beings is dawning on the horizon. They will be capable of acknowledging what some humans of today are preparing for them beyond traditional teachings, which no longer correspond to the current era. A new cycle is starting in the universal order that is far beyond the framework of this planet, and which will likewise align itself with this new order. Mentalities will evolve and it will no longer take ages for innovators to be recognised. Progress on all levels must prevail, and open-minded people will have to follow this movement which will necessarily run counter to dusty and obsolete traditions which, so far, most people have been happy with. This world must change on all levels, ensuring that an unprecedented spiritual openness is achieved in this world, and in which our way will play a major role.

"The Earth has reached a crucial juncture in its history. May all human beings of today become aware of a reality that they cannot yet grasp, and prepare for future times to the best of their abilities. We are helping them with that as much as possible."
