Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Friday, January 16, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

My daughter, tuning in to us drains you of energy, yet in spite of that you are punctual at our rendezvous as you make it a priority to serve us. Not everyone is blessed with this faculty and this gift allows you to acknowledge the accompanying divine graces.

"This is how you link up with us: through a deep meditation that allows you to transcribe our comments. The contact thus established with my dear son bears fruit. He appreciates these very subtle fragrances flowing from his Master's heart into his. His heart is receptive to all that emanates from his Master and to that which he recognizes as genuine.

"We are helping him in many ways. Perceptible or not, they yet constitute a network of forces capable of supporting him as much as possible in his heavy task.

"He keeps refining and growing, climbing the ladder of his future glory: that which has non-destructive attributes, unlike the ephemeral glory obtained by certain human beings. Continue to note down these messages, as much as you can, insofar as they can help him. This action is positive and will go far beyond, when these messages are known to most people. Our aspirants will be able to grasp, through these lines, what is important for supporting and reinforcing their spiritual work and developing a winner's mind-set.

"A spiritual process comprises many facets; nothing must be neglected. Their Master is attending to it through unremitting work and messages full of wisdom with which he regularly favours them. Everything is done to lead them to the end of a journey that is promising in every respect. Blessings to all."
