Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Sunday, January 18, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

When seated before a blank page, according to our agreement, the contact enabling you to tune in to us starts. It takes place with a heart full of love, arousing ours and sometimes giving these pages a particular tone. Our readers will feel the power of this love. Without it, these messages would lack light and life. Love alone arrays them with a grace which will be felt by sensitive hearts.

"These writings are full of nuances; we could not limit ourselves to the strictness of prophecies and the many pieces of advice given to our brothers. These messages are useful: their purpose is to help our brothers, to make them become aware of realities concerning them, and also those that relate to the future of the world, as it is and will become. It is advisable for them to adjust to this reality that is theirs and, in a more general context, to the reality of humanity's drifting evolution.

"No human means can remedy this drifting evolution; the innovations of the most daring people do nothing but endanger it. The leaders of some countries are frenziedly applying themselves, endangering it and considering their action as the glory of their tenure. Others, more respectful of the universal laws, are caught in an irreversible movement which they cannot escape, as they are not courageous enough to extricate themselves from it.

"This world is heading in the wrong direction: this is not new information. No one can look the other way on this point, even if they are very committed on the path of higher spirituality.

"May wisdom and peace be established here below, for the good of all! We are working towards that and we bless you all."
