Monday, January 26, 2004 - 10:00 AM

Imperceptibly, the vibrations of the Earth are changing. It enters a new cycle, placing it on a slightly different orbit, in view of the more important transformations that will take place in the future. The observation of these phenomena, as currently made on Earth, cannot grasp them really, since certain fundamental aspects escape the researchers. This fact can seem surprising and yet, scientific knowledge is far away from the truth. It corresponds to the level of evolution of this planet and the moment has not come yet to put men before a reality that they could not admit. Other phenomena must occur, leading them to re-examine their positions on convictions, which they believed to be definitively established.

"They will have to learn how to revert to humility in the face of phenomena completely beyond their understanding and calling into question an inappropriate teaching. The new era will shake up established convictions on principles the real meaning of which is not observable. The evolution of the whole of humanity will take place in a more general framework relating to the elements, which will generate unprecedented modifications at all levels.

"The dangerous manipulations carried out by men contribute to disturbing a precarious balance whose impacts will necessarily occur strongly, destroying an entire absurd system of life. Only the divine power is sovereign and can bring back humans to their senses; the means employed will not necessarily be to their liking."

Babuji