Your heart is the propitious and chosen link for our 'feats,' as we will call them, to diffuse through these comments, a wisdom coming from afar, far from the world of men. Recognized or not, they will be a base of work for those who will want to take the trouble to consider them. We will then urge them to look further into this teaching corroborating that of the Masters following one another in our way. By being established in the world, they win the hearts that can recognize in them wholesome comments having the ring of eternal truth.

"These Masters are the vehicles diffusing on Earth the light that they have in them, by the grace of the higher powers. They are invested with powers, which men cannot imagine; at least, they do not situate them where they are. How could they, since their judgment is fundamentally erroneous? That is not important; what only matters is the work carried out with a view to the evolution of men, to liberate them from a status restricting them to this world of darkness. They do not suffer from it, not being able to put things into perspective as far as this issue is concerned.

"Many believe they are superior. Fed with misconceptions, they continue on their way, full of themselves. One needs arguments to try to convince them! For them, appearance is more important than their own truth. Our teaching will not change this world straightaway; it provides arguments likely to open the eyes of our brothers. We are applying ourselves to that in many respects, with the sole aim of helping them.

"May they feel in themselves, very deeply, the cogency of our comments and follow, more convinced than ever, in the wake of their divine Master!"
