Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Tuesday, March 2, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

There are still things to be said, my child, but we must take into account your health: it is up to you to decide, as you like, whether we should continue or not.

"Many of our aspirants continue to enjoy fanciful publications that fuel their imaginations. We cannot adhere to such a practice just to please them. In these writings, we go to what is essential, to what is necessary for their spiritual development and nothing more. This is the principle of our way, stripped of anything that can overburden a teaching and a practice judiciously designed by the higher authorities who support our cause.

"Humans of the future will not overburden their minds unnecessarily; they will be able to recognise true values as they will be blessed with an understanding considerably higher than it is today. We try, through these messages, to give a glimpse of the positive aspects that the new era will bring to a regenerated humanity capable of understanding where the absolute necessities of an incarnation on this Earth lie. Will perfection characterise this world? We cannot tell. This pronouncement would sound peremptory, but it is sure that the world will no longer resemble today's world, which, shall we say, is quite appalling.

"Today's man, entangled in the movement of life, does not realise how distressing it is here below. It is not all negative, most fortunately; common sense and goodwill are there, but perversion exists on all levels and scorns higher principles that can no longer prevail. Divine laws are no longer respected, as they should be, by a majority of individuals. Rich are those who still abide by them while being involved in a spiritual process that opens promising horizons to them."
