Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Monday, March 15, 2004 – 11:30 a.m.

The Medium: "What would I be without you, without this love which you breathe into me in small doses and which subjugates my soul? You won it over long ago and led it to following your son, my Master, as is proper for a fervent disciple. All is well henceforth, in the evening of my life. Surrendered to your will and to his, my heart can freely sail in this divine space."

My child, your song remains joyful in spite of your sufferings. Without them, would you have come this long way? Be blessed for holding your course in spite of everything. Try to remain serene and not lose heart. Do not fear to express yourself in these writings."

Babuji