Accept the trying situations you are currently experiencing. We have said it before in these writings: all has its raison d'être. Therefore you should see the situation from that point of view.

"We help you as much as possible. Don't blame yourself for this pause, which is no breach of duty on your part. I will soon write to my son, when you are able to resume work. Be patient and remain confident.

"We bless you, and this kind soul who came to help you. There is a singular lack of goodwill in your circle."
