Preach divine love, as we do in these writings. It is about insisting on one of the facets of our teaching, which corresponds to the new era where it will find its actual place. We must take a stand on what that prospect is, by adapting to the prevailing development.

"The immersion in divine love is the outcome of any spiritual process requiring long work, which the person concerned may feel unrewarding. As the most exciting phase is taking shape, it is appropriate to accept its various expressions. More than ever, surrender is required, along with trust in one's Master. May our brothers admit this reality, even if they cannot understand all its subtleties."
