Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, April 22, 2004 - 9:30 AM

Who can, better than us, understand your moments of great lassitude? Do you believe that my son escapes this kind of reaction, he who carries the Mission in every sense of the word? When we were incarnates, we also, as we have said it so often, went through trying moments, making us give up for a while. Only love helps extricate oneself from such situations, by surrender, the sense of duty and especially, faith in what one does and in one's Master who is himself carried and guided by higher authority acting under divine inspiration. In reality, you are not alone; we are following you step by step in this long and hard process. Follow your heart, be blessed."

Babuji