Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Sunday, May 2, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

Yes, there are families of souls; this lineage is the surest, as it determines the plan of reincarnations and their achievements. These notions constitute a mystery to man, sometimes hopelessly searching his human origins for signs likely to inform him about his nature. The major focus should lie elsewhere, but he still has to be aware of it and to consider this aspect of himself as critical for him.

"It is easier to draw up a family tree in this world than to penetrate the mystery of one's ties outside this one, since the human being does not have access to this kind of record. He must be satisfied with what the current incarnation offers him; even if it does not satisfy him, he will have to make do with it.

"The divine laws are inescapable and nobody on this Earth can really look further into their meaning. While being refined spiritually, some light will be cast on his true nature. Knowing that his current incarnation is only one aspect of his life, he will seek to learn more about his true origins. An area of research will open to him: an area of reflection and, above all, a greater motivation to try to improve his current condition, to comply with what he really is.

"Surrender and confidence in what he does under the guidance of a Master will reassure him. These two concepts will take on their full meaning as he progresses in this redeeming process. The aspirant will understand that effort and faith in what we propose to him are determining factors. Our brothers will understand these comments; they will feel concerned, some of them having searched for a long time before reaching us.

"May they all be motivated and activate their practice in order to grasp all its benefits."
