Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Monday, May 10, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

My daughter, in response to your question: 'Are you going to educate, punish or bless today?' we wish to say firstly that having access to these messages is a blessing. To educate is our primary intention and we wish to succeed in it. As for punishing, that is not our role; life in its broadest sense is in charge of that and it rectifies what it needs to. That can take a long time in terms of human assessment – but what is time? Nothing but an illusory concept at the world level.

"Life, in its universal movement, always ends up correcting the disorders wherever they may occur in its various kingdoms. Human nature does not escape the rule and it will have to revert to being upright and no longer hinder this great general evolutionary movement. Men cannot observe the slowness of the process. They believe they know, but they do not, as they cannot claim to know the divine secrets. The queen in a hive knows where she comes from, what her surrounding world is and why she must comply with the rules governing her environment!

"Man to some extent is involved in a similar way of life. The most erudite people claim to know; they make statements, they assume and they generally draw hasty conclusions on life's aspects, whose origins they do not know. A widening of consciousness will enable them to have a more accurate view of phenomena. Science hides its shortcomings behind meaningless assertions. If the truth were to be revealed to the community of researchers, it would leave them speechless. This day will not come soon. Openness to the Divine is the only solution to this endangered humanity. May it see reason and be touched by grace."
