Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Friday, June 11, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

Remember! 'All is nothing, God is all.' Is there anything else to be said to support this comment that we haven't already said? Each day carries its diversity of routines and surprises, joys, sorrows and good or bad news. Without these unremitting changes, monotony would quickly prevail and become oppressive. The unforeseen is the thread of destiny for each one; it is inevitable.

"No one can escape the laws governing them. To follow a spiritual way can reduce the karma of the aspirant to the extent of his being released from it. To rise spiritually also entails distancing oneself from the uncertainties of life. It is good for [an aspirant] to have this recourse in the many circumstances when life becomes heavy. It is a sad existence that lacks a perspective for the future of a continuity that is rich in hope. Our brothers and sisters are on their way; they are progressing and heading towards the achievement of their destiny. Their way is all mapped out; we see to it."
