Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, June 12, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

Movement is life, my child. Everything changes; everything moves and is renewed repeatedly, in and around you. The tide of life is powerful; it inspires men and also rushes them, not locking them, essentially, into practices that could hinder their evolution.

"Each human being, in a broad outline, has his destiny well mapped out. Joining us was your destiny; could inertia have led you to us? Your life took on its true spiritual meaning, you say, in this practice which we propose and in the spirit animating our way.

"It is a family of souls, whose histories go far into the past. Most of the members meet again from life to life, confronting one another's personality in the dynamics of human relationships. Could they be offered a better field of experience? There, opposite traits mix. They help one another or confront each other, according to the circumstances. Life's heavy toll is not insignificant; it is enlightening and allows the incarnate being to find his place in his karmic plan.

"All has its raison d'être, the various aspects of an incarnation reveal themselves to him. Could an easy life enlighten him in the desired direction? Each one of our aspirants has his way of life; it is wise to accept it and conform to it. A spiritual process opens up new horizons which have no comparison to anything on the Earth. May all our brothers recognise it and motivate themselves accordingly."
