Whispers from The Brighter World

Look towards your Master, my child, beyond his human appearance. He is vested with divine powers to lead our Mission. He is the Envoy, the Chosen One, chosen to this end. Isn't it beautiful this picture of the Master followed by very many abhyasis following our way and trusting in him!

"Sahaj Marg is ploughing its furrow in the world. The sages understood that beyond a seeming simplicity, effectiveness was real. In these troubled times where the beings become unstable, seeking constantly the appeal to new things and senses, they are eager to interiorize themselves, to escape this unsettling pervading excitation, moving them away from their own reality. It is not easy, in the hectic life of the cities (where their attention is attracted by anything) to take the time to take a break and to connect to Divinity. Succeeding in it testifies to the willingness to exceed the appearances of a civilization that is on the road to ruin. Being first and foremost centred on profit, it always neglects true values, moving beings away from what could help them to be what they really are.

"In our way, there is no illusory ritual, no commotion meant to fire the imagination of the aspirants; the action takes place at another level which does not satisfy their natural curiosity, but meets a true aspiration for elevation. When a soul arrives and has reached its point of spiritual maturity, it makes light of the disadvantages inherent to the environment where the incarnate being moves. Its thirst urges it to find the source capable of refreshing it; and it will succeed."
