Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Monday, June 14, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

When these messages no longer have their raison d'être, the source will dry up; be serene on this issue, my daughter. They will be appreciated, the whole lot of them, by most of our brothers. People who like to criticise exist in any group; they will miss a type of assistance being offered to them.

"We should not dwell on the negative aspect of beings. Your Master himself does not escape criticisms from some abhyasis; humans are like that. The Earth does not stop revolving because of that and the Mission is progressing as planned. The ceaseless play of men's behaviours has aspects rather amazing to observe. Far from this world, everything is magnified in detail; the complexity of the characteristics is great.

"The call of the soul, in this labyrinth with many contradictions, must be expressed very loudly. No being escapes this manifestation of feelings he has to manage. Stability and inner peace provided to him by a regular spiritual process help him to better grasp the characteristics of his personality.

"Our way offers various possibilities and forms of assistance. All our brothers must find in it what they need, as they are the only ones who can judge. The diversity of their respective aspirations can, however, bring them back to what is essential, once they have understood it. The way is long but it is not without prospects. May all our aspirants glimpse the light and not take their eyes off it."
