Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, May 18, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

You have always been so courageous, you are not going to break down now; pull yourself together. That cannot console you, but you are an example for those who see beyond appearances. You are not easy to figure out; some get fooled by that.

Don't give up, my daughter. You are at the same time strong and fragile in your body, like a precious mechanism. Only wise people can understand this.

Try to respond and put into practice what we have said above. Do not have pointless fears that hurt you; deal with the present, only the present.

Surrender; we love you and bless you.

Babuji