Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Thursday, June 24, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

You are never alone, my child, and you know this. But, you see, to doubt is only human. Even though humans are given evidence, even that is sometimes not enough when they are overwhelmed by ordeals. 'The invisible', as it is called here below, surges with life and varied energies which man cannot perceive. Ordeals are inevitable; they untangle the threads of karma, from which man must distance himself with regard to events that delay his progress.

"The complexity of life escapes most men. The barriers of illusion are there to maintain man in an ignorance that corresponds to the rules governing this world. This stay on the Earth is full of consequences; throughout his search the seeker should not overlook any minor detail. 'God helps those who help themselves', as the saying goes!

"Each one faces his destiny. Its broad outline cannot be modified; it can only be rearranged according to the development and the path followed by the aspirant. A very thorough spiritual process opens crucial doors. All fits together in this commitment that is likely to make the being progress in accordance with his wishes. Acceptance and surrender are invaluable assets; we encourage our brothers and sisters to meditate on these concepts and to assimilate them well."
