Friday, June 25, 2004 - 10:00 AM

God is in each being. The heart is His temple, His sacred abode, and He deserves to be recognized as such. Let this presence grow in you, and take up the whole place; one never gives too much place to it. Your efforts in this world condition your future life; this aspect should not be ignored.

"Our brothers understood it; they are developing spiritually within our Mission. Little by little, while advancing on the way, they become aware of their limitations, which motivate them to persevere in their process. Everything has to be earned; nothing can be given without efforts. We can see our faithful abhyasis being strengthened in their faith and their trust in the living Master. They recognize him; it is for them a privilege to benefit from his work on the Earth. They can approach him, he is not an icon before which they come and pray. Concretely, they can communicate with him and benefit from his teaching. Masters who preceded him inspire him and he relays the divine word, for the good of our Mission.

"All benefit from his action, whether they are present or not by his side, it embraces all of our abhyasis whose hearts are open to his benefits. Let us repeat it again: no one is forgotten. The divine laws are not restricted by distances, or by differences between the beings. Everyone is equal in the eyes of God and in the heart of the Master."

Babuji