Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Friday, July 2, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

Forget your worries and refocus in the core of silence – there is peace and joy. Think of the long way we have come together: songs of love resulted from it, accompanied by comments intended to help our brothers. Your efforts are not useless, my child. These messages will be appreciated; they will help spiritually and bring comfort to fervent hearts. To date, the crop [of messages] is good; it satisfies us.

"We can only recall what was already said, by insisting on certain points capable of awakening the consciousness of our readers. The sacred texts themselves address the same issues: what other way can one use to truly catch the attention of people caught in the ceaseless movement of life? To hold their attention and to lead them to thinking about their fellow creatures and themselves require some knowledge of human weaknesses as well as faith in one's capacity to make progress.

"Our abhyasis are advancing; we notice it with the passage of time. They are becoming adult in their way of apprehending life and managing it, by including in it their spiritual process that has become essential to them. The influence of our Mission touches hearts; this work is being done slowly but regularly and positively, exceeding the framework of our structures. Many souls benefit from it: the vibrations emitted in our way, which are not restricted to our aspirants alone.

"That is how the divine laws are; we are serving them by working relentlessly with the greatest fervour."
