The future of Earth falls under an immense plan concerning the entire universe. It is only a negligible element in this gigantic architecture but it cannot be allowed to be the blip jamming the system.

"This planet does not belong to men who live there, whatever the powers they believe they have. They are nothing compared with the divine power; at the proper time, the evidence of it will be given to them. This civilization is going too far in its prerogatives and it is endangering a whole balance without worrying about the consequences. To date, the movement has become irreversible; it is up to each one to become aware of it and to act by taking account of the situation.

"May humanity react in time, to curb the destructive phenomenon! Voices should not fear any more to rise, thus showing that wisdom can still prevail over profit. Spiritual practice must bring man back to a right appreciation of his life and its outcome and the reasons for his becoming incarnate in this world.

"This principle is far beyond the concerns of most humans. Those who know are preparing the way; the new era will be established in this world, in spite of this gloomy fact.

"Our Mission works within the framework of this broad movement, without any sectarianism or racism whatsoever. That is where its great strength lies. The opposite only brings discord and weakening of the movement. May all our brothers become aware of this reality!"
