You can be happy; your isolation does not prevent you from taking part in this beautiful celebration of the Spirit which is being prepared in the Mission. A privileged ambassador is taking to the Master the production of your heart; you will not be absent from this big feast. Joy can suffuse the hearts. The Mission is doing well and the anniversary of its Master will be celebrated as is right and proper in a moment of communion enriching the souls. Stay in this communion; it benefits your heart. Special blessings are bestowed on all of our brothers and sisters, united in the same spirit. That is where the beauty of a way lies, having proven reliable since its advent in this world by divine grace.

"Our son is praised to the skies; we have good reasons for that, the higher authorities thus supporting him. The Mission must grow in the world and work for the good of men in search of truth—the truth. It is in the simplicity of the heart, the surrender to the Master and the eagerness to progress that an increasing number of souls will join the initial core and will move towards the goal. We wanted once again to express our satisfaction, and to encourage our son through these messages that are so familiar to him.

"We communicate with him in many ways; being incarnate, this means of communication supplements what he receives through other ways. He is supported in his heavy task by all the love we can give him—He knows it. He is so dear to us; it was good, once more, to repeat it."
