The importance of these messages goes well beyond comments being made. Their vibration is specific, irrespective of whether they are read loudly or received quite simply in the silence of the heart. We are not filling pages to only revert to the same subjects, even though that is necessary. Our target is above all the heart. In the heart is being accumulated the only valuable treasure capable of exceeding the barriers of matter. In this respect it deserves to employ the fitting means.

"Nothing should be ignored in this kind of process even if the aspirant cannot grasp all the subtleties of the work being performed in our system. Many, without really understanding it, become aware of the fact that beyond appearances, some forces operate in them, helping them to progress. Results cannot be measured like in sports. Here doping is not relevant; only the inner attitude of the abhyasi towards the action of his Master matters.

"The strength of a way like ours grows in proportion to its égrégore whose might also increases. Its deployment is important; it gives it its true place in the register of time. All should be reassured that this movement will not be transient: there is no risk of this 'multinational' collapsing. We have already underlined it: anniversaries in the Mission allow assessments to be made. They are necessary milestones, allowing the material level to have satisfactory benchmarks as far as we are concerned.

"May each one of our brothers be reinvigorated by that."
