Thursday, August 5, 2004 - 10:00 AM

Don't give up, my daughter, you always fought courageously. We support you in this struggle where you give priority to serving as expected of you. Escape toward other banks where the beauty of the place touches your heart. Here is peace and harmony that are sorely lacking here below.

"Look towards your Master, he also has his own ordeals and feels alone in this world. It is the lot of humans and although he is exceptional, he does not escape the rule, we have all gone through that.

"Staying on Earth is mandatory. It was not so for him. Beings with a mission are released from this obligation. To come and help humanity is to serve at the highest level and contribute to its elevation. The vocation of Sahaj Marg lies precisely there: its action is part and parcel of this great redemptive movement being offered to today's man. Will they all manage to benefit from it and seize the opportunity being offered to them? We cannot decide on their behalf.

"Many souls are ready, and this fact is reassuring. This century will be decisive for the future of humanity: it is as ever at a pivotal point of its history. Everything is looking conducive to the fulfilment of divine will. May they transform this world as planned for. Let us continue to work in this direction in the roles being respectively assigned to each one.

"To serve is to live life to the full, in compliance with divine laws and by maintaining in oneself love and confidence without which edifying acts cannot be accomplished. An endless chain connects these souls who have offered up their life to a great cause, the only one that is really worth it.

"Blessings to all."

Babuji