It is wise to reflect on past events, when it comes to identifying the underlying constructive elements.

"All that relates to spiritual life deserves this special attention. On this point, the messages alone constitute satisfactory and important nourishment. They contain a very simple teaching, yet meet the requirements of this time, which necessitates focusing on the essentials without being soft on human imperfections – including those of our aspirants. Nothing must be left to chance; an in-depth spiritual quest can ill afford it.

"May our brothers strengthen themselves under the guidance of their Master! Our blessings are with all."
