Friday, September 17, 2004 - 10:00 AM

This heart to heart communication between Master and disciple creates intangible bonds. Like a star shining in the firmament, he takes along other hearts with him.

"Love, this rare energy, gains followers by touching souls that are sensitive to its effects. What was born under divine inspiration finds its power of renewal in this world, as is the case for a spiritual way like ours.

"The appeal to the Divine will keep growing in this world disorientated for many reasons, and including, precisely, this food needed by the soul, which it is lacking desperately. Turbulences of the purportedly modern world do not facilitate this rise towards the ineffable divine splendour, hence the growing helplessness of many beings in perdition, and that in an alarming way.

"Only spirituality will be able to save humanity; may the greatest number become aware of it and find in themselves the answers capable of putting them on the right track. The watering place is there in this desert vastness. It is enough to find it to come and quench one's thirst there. It is actually about that: the soul is thirsting for the Divine. It cannot repress it indefinitely. When the moment has come the opportunity arises and nothing can stop it any more. Thus are the divine laws: they act advisedly and this admirable work helps not to despair of this humanity suffering and blinded by an illusory profit.

"Our aspirants are privileged people; they found their source and they don't hold back. The most motivated have understood it for a long time; they show it by their fidelity to our Mission. May all be sanctified and blessed."

Babuji