Let yourself be carried away by the breath of life emanating from the Divine. This dimension helps you in your daily life. Without it your life would seem monotonous. Your heart lets itself become inflamed with its fires and be carried to heights being accessible to it. The beauty of such a process resides in this profound joy generated by it.

"Your commitment never failed; an unfailing faith illuminates your days. You found your way, which happily is ours; so was it bound to happen. Each one finds one's way when one searches for it with conviction and ardour. The soul becomes exacting when the moment comes when it should canalize the forces necessary to its elevation.

"All our brothers have experienced these circumstances whereby were revealed to them the possibilities offered by our Mission. As we have already said, souls come to us, as one comes to the source. The example set by our brothers must speak for itself. No propaganda is needed, as we strongly reject it. We do not trade on our teaching. Our brothers should concentrate on their own case; all have enough to do with that. Their personal work, as is in the nature of things, will benefit everybody.

"Powers resulting from a sincere process radiate generously and are perceptible to hearts that are ready to join in it on their own. The force of cohesion is more effective than any comments, except a Master's. May our brothers remain confident in our way and its divine representative!"
