The communion of souls having the same spiritual identity contributes to the elevation of humanity. This is the case with our way, and that is the reason for its existence. A movement like ours plays its role in the transformation of the world. Its expansion has no other goal than this. Divine laws manifest in many ways; we are an example of that.

On Earth, all is put into place slowly, according to the movement of this planet and its vibratory level which regulates all aspects of life. For the most part, the worlds have their completely different characteristics, hence the difficulty for Earthlings in identifying life beyond their own sphere. Their knowledge is limited to this one; they are not privileged, in the current state of evolution, to determine the plurality of the worlds and what characterises them. All of creation makes light of the limited knowledge of human beings. This creation holds great surprises for them. In future times, the face of the world will have completely changed for the good of all and, by extension, for all those who are currently suffering from the folly of humans, which endangers a whole balance necessary to life.

The movement is irreversible; nothing will stop this frantic process of polluting and destroying here below, a process taking place on the pretext of modernising and large-scale production. Sooner or later errors must be paid for; this civilisation is going too far in terms of excess. A brutal brake will be put on this destructive system – this is in the order of things.
