Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, May 23, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

Each person's belief is to be respected; this is what is done in our way. There are so many ways leading to the goal. The starting point is a call from the soul, which is compelled to act to unite with the divine presence residing in it.

Many do not understand this and go searching for the Divine outside themselves. But the impulse is given; they advance on the path that will lead them sooner or later to the right place.

They will go through various experiences before discovering what suits them.

One day, they will find the right path, the one they judge to be the best for them.

No one should be rushed.

The heart must be open enough at the beginning of any process to distinguish between what is right and what is not.

What matters is to take the first step. When a soul awakens to God, it seeks, and its search, one day or another, will take it where it needs to be.

Time must do its work. Never consider yourselves as the only holders of truth – it is manifold. God, in his sublime grandeur, has a thousand and one facets to attract souls that are ready.

He knows how to pick, in due time, the most beautiful flowers from His garden and look after them with all the love He is capable of.

Rejoice that you all are among the chosen and give thanks.
