

Saturday, November 20, 2004 - 10:00 AM

Without this impassioned temperament, how would your life be today? It allows you not to dwell on your ordeals and to completely put yourself into what you consider as essential. By trying to serve us in spite of everything, you are showing the strength of love, when it is deeply felt.

"It stimulates faith, capable of moving mountains as they say. Our Mission is built in this state of mind where each one, from Master to abhyasi, even if one is not involved in any specific task, represents an exemplary component of the Sahaj Marg fabric. Nothing can be done without a profound motivation. When it is supported by a fervent faith, it generates a constructive vibratory climate, for the whole of the group.

"This unified power provides it with its identity on the human level, underlining its identity in the ethereal spheres where it prefigures how it will be tomorrow in this world. When love is disinterested, it is effective. Without it, how would be today this humanity devoid of this purificatory aspect, counterbalancing to its own extent, the pervading negativity.

"All that ranks among the good on Earth has its source in this energy indefinable by man, resulting from the Divine. It is given to him so that his destiny is achieved on the highest level of consciousness—the goal of a long process that does not end here below. When it is for him, time for knowledge, he will understand the need for working for the good of all, in the purest love.

"May peace prevail one day in this world."

Babuji