Sunday, December 19, 2004 – 10:00 a.m.

This world is in turmoil, and human beings are running in all directions as if frightened by an approaching danger. They become dazed by noise and images, many of which are polluting. Their equilibrium is disturbed and this generates various evils whose cause in certain cases relates to this lack of interiorisation and serenity. All this contributes to endangering life on Earth in its various aspects.

In the current cycle, human beings are entangled in a system that they cannot reverse by themselves. The elements will deal with it in due time, driven by a divine will, the only one capable of restoring normality in this world. There will be a heavy price to pay. How could it be otherwise, since human beings shamelessly destroy what creation has offered them – marvellous things orchestrated in the minutest details, aimed at reaching perfection? What becomes of spiritual beings in this turmoil? They do their personal best, trying to find themselves while seeking a favourable way out, a way that meets their needs.

Nothing is simple for them. Spurred on by a critical mind like all their kind, they sometimes neglect what is essential and dwell on unavoidable human failings. Only common sense and thirst for the Divine will inspire in each one the action to be taken. Being among their brothers and sisters who are also involved in a process capable of opening the path to them, they must disregard human weakness and consider only the goal to be reached. For all of them, the path to this goal passes through the spiritual Master who can guide and inform them in the secrecy of their hearts where the marvel unfolds, the place of all delights.

Babuji